

WEBINAR: SCHOOL MEALS AND INCLUSIVITY: A QUESTION OF PRICE?

Dear,

School meals are an important part of children's daily life with big significance for their health, their education as well as their social life. School meals also make up a big public procurement item and in recent years there has been a greater focus on how it can contribute better to achieve sustainability standards.

On Thursday, 17 November from 10:00 to 13:00 CEST, the Fair Trade Advocacy Office and the World Fair Trade Organization- Europe are happy to invite you to a webinar which will cover the subject with outstanding guests and interactive sessions.

We are happy to present you our moderators:

- Tomaso Ferrando, Research Professor at the Faculty of Law and Institute of Development Policy (IOB), University of Antwerp and member of the Legal Action Committee, Global Legal Action Network (GLAN)
- Virginia Pignata, Communications Intern at the World Fair Trade Organization- Europe.

1. Jatta Makkula, national coordinator of the Fair Trade Towns network in Finland.
2. Claudia Paltrinieri, Director of Food insider.
3. Lisa Hermann, Head of Campaigning&Engagement at Fairtrade Deutschland and Fair Trade Schools and University Coordinator.
4. Estelle Compere-Leroy, project manager at "Manger Demain", a project developed by the Wallon region in Belgium to implement a Walloon Sustainable Food Reference Framework and a collective vision for the future that is an integral part of the Walloon Sustainable Food Strategy "Eating Tomorrow".
5. Municipality of Copenhagen (tbc).

In the first part of the webinar, from 10:00 until 11:30 we'll have a panel debate among the speakers. After a little break, from 11:40 until 13:00 the participants will be attending working groups on focused discussions. We allow participants to stay 20 mins in each room: challenges, solutions and stakeholder engagement. At the end we'll all be returning to plenary and we'll share the take-aways from each room.
